8 arrested in bizarre killings

Project Sugar Horse. 'Ruthless' group linked to crimes dating back to 2008, police say

JESSICA SMITH
jessica.smith@metronews.ca

Toronto police allege a group of eight people in their 20s are responsible for at least four murders and two shootings between them — including two homicides and a shooting they call unprovoked "random acts of violence."

Staff Insp. Greg McLane called the group "ruthless."

"They've just come upon these people, engaged them and murdered them," he alleged.

He did not call them a gang but he said they "hung out" and committed crimes together. Police are investigating to see if this group is connected to any other murders.

McLane said Project Sugar Horse started in April when police linked homicides and shootings that occurred in 2008, 2011 and 2012.

The first attack linked to the group was the attempted murder of Kenneth Mark on Sept. 2, 2008, on St. Clair West.

"It is alleged the accused approached him from behind and shot him in the head," said McLane.

"Kenneth Mark survived his injuries."

The accused was a young offender at the time and cannot be named, said McLane.

Mark was shot and killed on Dec. 29, 2009. In 2012, a jury convicted a then-21-year-old man of first-degree murder, accepting the Crown's theory that the execution of Mark was retribution for testimony that the man and his brother had shot Mark.

Mark was known as a community activist and "a gentle giant," and his murder sparked police efforts to better protect witnesses.

The next victim, 28-year-old Jermaine Smith, was found dead at 4020 Dundas St. W. on Aug. 27, 2011. His shooting was targeted, police said. Aiman Khiar was charged with first-degree murder.

Delano Coombs, 27, was shot and killed on May 10, 2012, at the same complex where Smith was killed in a targeted homicide, said McLane. Jerome Bent and Dellan McMorris of Toronto were charged with first-degree murder.

The Coombs family attended the press conference and thanked police.

"To know that someone wakes up one morning and decides to kill someone randomly — that's disgusting and that's painful," said his sister Toni Tenille Rodney.

The fourth shooting — the first unprovoked attack — was on July 19, 2012, at Flemingdon Park Public School. Daniel Davis, 27, was in the schoolyard with friends when people drove up in three vehicles, fired and then fled. Bent, as well as Shakeil Wheatle, Dwayne Willis, Amanda Rumbolt, Jathursan Rajarubakumar and Bershon Roach-Ferguson were charged with first-degree murder.

The fifth shooting, also unprovoked, occurred on Sept. 11, 2012. An 18-year-old man was walking near Jane and Wilson when a vehicle drove up beside him and the occupants asked him a number of questions. Bent fired a number of shots at him, police allege. He and Rumbolt were charged with attempted murder.

Police allege Marvin Engelbrecht, 24, was walking his dog on Oct. 29, 2012, in the Flemingdon Road area when a vehicle with a number of occupants pulled alongside him, chased him and shot him to death. Wheatle was charged with first-degree murder.

Anyone who has information that could lead to an arrest is asked to contact police at 416-808-7400, Crime Stoppers anonymously at 416-222-TIPS (8477), online at 222tips.com, or to text TOR and your message to CRIMES (274637).

U of T students to rally for 'women, queer folks, and writers of colour'

'Good teaching requires empathy.' Are David Gilmour's Giller Prize chances in jeopardy?

Books don't stop you from being an ass

"We want so badly to believe that reading all these wonderful books will make us better people. David Gilmour is much more well-read than I am ... and it turns out he's still capable of being an ass."

Nick Mount, U of T English Department

University of Toronto students are holding a literary rally Friday to protest comments made by author David Gilmour indicating that he doesn't love Chinese or female writers and won't teach them.

"David Gilmour has generously reminded us of the importance of studying serious literature by serious heterosexual guys," wrote the organizers on a Facebook page advertising the protest.

"Let's show our support for the omission of unserious people like women, queer folks, and writers of colour (especially Chinese writers) from university syllabi by rallying around the statue to serious heterosexual literary scholar Northrop Frye."

Students of literature aren't the only ones outraged by Gilmour's comments, made in an interview with Hazlitt magazine earlier this week.

"When I was given this job I said I would only teach the people that I truly, truly love. Unfortunately, none of those happen to be Chinese, or women," he said.

Professors in the English Department at U of T have been distancing themselves from the comments, notably Holger Syme, who posted a critique on his blog.

"I wouldn't ordinarily attack a colleague in public over something that colleague said in a non-academic publication. Thankfully, David Gilmour isn't actually a colleague of mine," he wrote.

"David Gilmour is not a professor of literature. He's someone who teaches a couple of courses on an odd assemblage of texts. David Gilmour does not talk or think like a professor of literature. Good teaching requires empathy — an effort to understand things, ideas, and people totally unlike you. Some of those people are your students."

Gilmour declined comment Thursday, writing, "I've said what I wanted to say."

The backlash against Gilmour grew throughout the day Thursday, with people from the Canadian literary scene joining in. Several commentators noted that the affair risks damaging Gilmour's chances of winning the Giller Prize. His newest novel, Extraordinary, was longlisted for the prize. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Sit down and Shape Up

Students at St. Leo Catholic Elementary School were thrilled when the Leafs' Dave Bolland, the Raptors' Jamaal Magloire and members of TFC and the Marlies gave them exercise tips and advice on Thursday, at the annual Shape Up Program. The event, held at the Toronto Reference Library, is a free tool for teachers and students, using MLSE athletes to motivate youth to learn the importance of physical activity.

Facebook. Coun. Amy England is the target of a post that compares her to an anti-smoking ad

A Facebook post compares Oshawa Coun. Amy England to a photo of a rotten-teeth, wrinkled woman on cigarette packages. COURTESY FACEBOOK

A pregnant Oshawa councillor says she is the target of sexist cyber-bullying, after an image comparing her to a graphic anti-smoking photo was posted on Facebook.

The image, posted Wednesday on two separate Facebook groups, mocks Amy England, a councillor who famously underwent a reality television show makeover while campaigning in 2010.

"Has anyone else see (sic) these before and after pics of Councillor England?" wrote Facebook user George Pappas in one of the groups.

"It's completely disturbing on so many levels," said England. "As a woman in politics, these kinds of attacks have been constant since I have been in office."

England, who is seven months pregnant, said when she announced plans to bring her baby to work to breastfeed, she received emails telling her to "shut her legs" and "focus on her job."

On the Facebook page where Pappas posted the photo, another user, Howard Stacey, offered to send anyone who is interested "candid photos of England, totally shot on holiday."

Another user wrote, "Best with the pink shag on top," a reference to England dying her hair pink last year in honour of her mother, who died of breast cancer. Pappas replied, "But does the carpet match the drapes?"

When reached by Torstar News Service, Pappas denied that the image was sexist, calling it a "political parody, nothing more." He said it mocks not only her makeover but also her breaking campaign promises.

Jobless youth 'on the outside looking in'

The Young and the Jobless. Age 15-24 unemployment in province nearing a crisis point, study finds Unemployment among young people is worse in Ontario than in rust belt states like Indiana and Ohio, with the province's youth jobless crisis being deeply felt in Toronto, a new study finds.

As the minority Liberal government pushes a $295-million program to tackle the problem, the Canadian Centre for Policy Alternatives' report exposes some alarming trends.

"The big story is that five years after the Great Recession, youth remain largely shut out of Ontario's slow economic recovery," writes Sean Geobey in the 36-page report entitled The Young and the Jobless.

"Help Wanted signs might have re-emerged, but Ontario's young workers find themselves on the outside looking in — and the province's current youth employment strategy isn't fast enough nor robust enough to turn things around," Geobey continues.

At 16.9 per cent last year, Ontario's unemployment rate among people aged 15 to 24 rivaled neighbouring Michigan and was higher than Indiana, Minnesota, Ohio, Pennsylvania and Wisconsin.

Only Illinois at 18.5 per cent and New York at 18 per cent fared more poorly than Ontario.

"Across the Ottawa River, Quebec has also outperformed Ontario, with a considerably lower youth unemployment rate of 13.7 per cent in 2012," he writes, noting Canada's national average was 14.3 per cent last year.

Make your own job

Also included in the Liberals' $295-million strategy is $45 million to bankroll young entrepreneurs and a $30 million innovation fund to bring their ideas to market.

- "The programs respond directly to the lack of access to capital that young entrepreneurs face. But it remains unclear how large these loans will be," the report says.

Toronto is among the worst in Ontario with 18.1 per cent. By comparison, Hamilton is 13.2 per cent and Kitchener-Cambridge-Waterloo is 13.8 per cent. Windsor is at 24.7 per cent, Oshawa is at 21.8 per cent, and London is 20.3 per cent.

Putting Canadians on the hot seat

Play Taxi Media, a media company that has a network of touch screens in taxicabs across Canada, challenged young professionals on their knowledge of our home and native land.

Vancouverites and Calgarians excelled when asked the capital of their province with more than 90 per cent of riders answering Victoria and Edmonton, respectively. Torontonians were a bit more challenged, with 34 per cent incorrectly choosing Ottawa over Toronto.

Overall, 75 per cent of riders were "smarter than a 5th grader" in remembering that the Confederation was officially proclaimed in 1867; however, when asked how many oceans border our nation, 37 per cent seem to have forgotten about the Arctic Ocean.

Finally, across the country, there was no confusion with the identity of our first Prime Minister, with over 80 per cent selecting Sir. John A. MacDonald.

‘The white widow’ wanted in connection with terrorist plot

Samantha Lewthwaite. She’s the daughter of a former British soldier, was born in Northern Ireland and grew up northwest of London

The tabloids call her “the white widow,” a Northern Ireland-born Muslim convert who was married to one of the suicide bombers in the 2005 attack on London’s transit system. And for days now, the British media have been rife with speculation she took part in the terrorist takeover at a Nairobi shopping mall.

On Thursday, Interpol, acting at Kenya’s request, issued an arrest notice for 29-year-old fugitive Samantha Lewthwaite — not in connection with the mall attack, but over a 2011 plot to bomb holiday resorts in Kenya.

If Lewthwaite indeed embraced the jihadi cause, it would mark a chilling turnaround for the apparently grieving widow who originally condemned the London transit bombings and criticized her late husband, Jermaine Lindsay, for taking part.

Officials have not made public any evidence linking her to the mall attack. The Interpol notice did not mention it. And al-Shabab, the Somali Islamic extremist group behind the takeover, denied any female fighters participated.

Interpol’s “red notice” for Lewthwaite said she is wanted on charges of possessing explosives and conspiracy to commit a felony in December 2011. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

EXTENDED SUBWAY IN SCARBOROUGH NOW A STEP CLOSER TO REALITY

ANDY BYFORD
CEO
TORONTO TRANSIT COMMISSION

Earlier this week, Finance Minister Jim Flaherty announced that the Federal government will contribute $660 million toward the cost of extending the Bloor-Danforth subway line east of Kennedy Station.

The announcement follows protracted discussions with the City and Provincial governments about how best to replace the aging Scarborough Rapid Transit line as it comes to the end of its useful life.

I very much welcome this injection of new funds into public transit in Toronto.

Also this week, I tabled a report at the TTC Board that set out our rationale for the optimum alignment (or routing) for the subway extension that calls for the line to be extended eastward from Kennedy Station, then north under McCowan Road, terminating at Sheppard Avenue East. This is, by far, the best option from an engineering, operational and customer perspective.

Toronto City Council will review this option next month. After that, an environmental assessment will follow and the final alignment and design will then allow for construction to begin. In the meantime, the TTC will keep the SRT operating safely and reliably through the 2015 Pan Am/Parapan Am Games and until the new subway extension is ready.

I will continue to remind councillors of the need to adequately fund the existing network in order to maintain our state of good repair. I will also reiterate that a relief line, to take pressure off the Yonge line – and especially Bloor-Yonge interchange station – remains a TTC top priority.

There has been a lot of talk about this Scarborough project. We're keen to get started on making it a reality.

AskTTC

Dear TTC,
Any chance you could publish an article on how to outsmart major bus, streetcar or subway delays?
Thanks,
Chris

Hi Chris,
The TTC's infrastructure is benefitting from a number of construction projects underway today. Subway closures are necessary to complete track upgrades, new signal installation or other work that our regular overnight maintenance window does not allow. Before work begins, service advisories are distributed to those registered with TTC e-Services or who follow @TTCnotices on Twitter. Information is also posted to Platform Video Screens in all TTC stations and on our website at ttc.ca. If a delay affects your route, you can use the TTC trip planner to find the quickest alternative. Customers can also pick up a free Ride Guide from any TTC Collector Booth, which includes a complete listing of TTC routes, as many bus and streetcar lines parallel subway service and can be an effective alternative.

SUBWAY CLOSURE: KIPLING TO ISLINGTON STATIONS

On Sat., Sept. 28, and Sun., Sept. 29, the Bloor-Danforth line will be closed from Kipling to Islington stations for scheduled track upgrades. The nature of the work involves the replacement of 500 metres of rail. During the closure, frequent shuttle buses will operate between Kipling and Islington stations, with Wheel-Trans buses available at Kipling and Jane stations for customers requiring an accessible connection. TTC staff will be on hand to offer assistance. Regular subway service resumes at 6 a.m. on Mon., Sept. 30.

THE KINDER WAY

When boarding any TTC vehicle, please move to the rear of the vehicle to allow room for your fellow riders to safely board.

RECYCLE

Please keep the TTC litter-free. Recycle your reading materials in any station or platform receptacle.

EMPLOYEE PROFILE

Name: Lisa Weir

Years of Service: 25

The TTC has provided me with the environment that has introduced me to lifelong friends and a sense of community. Every day brings with it new and interesting experiences and challenges. It's also nice when a complete stranger smiles and says, "You've been here a long time. I remember you when I was in high school. Keep up the good work and keep smiling." Moments like this make it all worthwhile. I'd like to thank my dad for encouraging me to get a job with the TTC. The Commission has been good to me – providing me with a fulfilling career, and one that provides excellent service to daily commuters and visitors to Toronto. I have never looked back.

Canadian Greenpeace International activist Paul Ruzycki looks out from a defendant's cage in a court in the northern Russian city of Murmansk. IGOR PODGORNY/GREENPEACE/HANDOUT

Family worry over jailed Canadians

Greenpeace. Although Russian President Vladimir Putin said Wednesday the activists aren't pirates, he defended their detention

The families of two Canadian Greenpeace members jailed for two months Thursday in Russia after protesting near an oil platform remain concerned for their safety.

It has been one week since the Coast Guard seized a Greenpeace ship after several members of its crew attempted to scale the Arctic platform. The Arctic Sunrise, with 30 people on board, was towed to Murmansk in northwest Russia, where the crew is being investigated for piracy.

According to Greenpeace, 22 activists have been jailed for two months. A further eight members are being held for three days.

Among those detained for two months are Canadians Paul Ruzycki, 48, of Port Colborne, Ont., who served as chief mate, and Alexandre Paul, 35, a boatswain from the Montreal area.

No charges have yet been brought against them. Ruzycki's sister, Patti Ruzycki-Stirling, said officials told her the two-month detention was "a preventative measure to ensure that they do not flee the country while Russia is trying to figure out what charges to lay."

She said her family remains worried, particularly because Ruzycki suffers from lupus, an autoimmune disease, and likely doesn't have access to his medication.

Boy arrested after threatening to shoot staff

Mounties have charged a 15-year-old boy after staff at a school in northern Saskatchewan say a student threatened to shoot them.

RCMP Sgt. Craig Cleary says police got a complaint on Wednesday from three staff members at Stobart Community School in Duck Lake.

The boy is charged with three counts of uttering threats and mischief and is scheduled to appear in provincial court in Saskatoon on Friday.

Ottawa. Two girls plead guilty, third still on trial in teen prostitution case

Two of three teenaged Ottawa girls accused of befriending other teens through Facebook and other social media before forcing them to work as "escorts" have pleaded guilty in a surprise about-face at trial.

Court was told Thursday that the two girls had reached a resolution with Crown prosecutors.

Justice Diane Lahaie has ordered a pre-sentence report and a psychiatric review of a girl who pleaded guilty to six charges, including human trafficking, making and distributing child pornography and exploitation.

She is to be sentenced on Dec. 20.

A 17-year-old girl facing the fewest charges in the case pleaded guilty to four charges including exploitation, assault, uttering threats and breaching the conditions of her bail.

The third accused, a 16-year-old girl facing the most charges in the case, did not change her not guilty plea. Her trial will continue in October.

Baird wants to break up forced marriages

Problems at home. 219 cases of forced marriage in Ontario were reported from 2010 to 2012: Study

Foreign Affairs Minister John Baird, buoyed from the success of his mission at the United Nations to launch an initiative to end child and forced marriage, now hopes to turn his attention to the problem at home.

"This is all a part of promoting Canadian values," Baird told Torstar News Service in a phone interview Thursday. "We want to be a key champion to ending this practice. We really want to put this issue on the table. It's a topic people don't want to discuss. It's a difficult topic, but it's finally come out of the shadows."

Baird said he plans to meet with Minister of Justice Peter MacKay and the minister responsible for status of women, Dr. Kellie Leitch, about forced marriages in Canada, a recent report on the issue from the South Asian Legal Clinic of Ontario, and possible solutions.

Quoted

"This is all a part of promoting Canadian values."

John Baird, Foreign Affairs Minister

His comments come on the heels of SALCO's disturbing study, which found 219 reported cases of forced marriage in the province between 2010 and 2012, of whom 97 per cent of the reported victims were women.

The majority of these cases — 81 per cent — unearthed in the study involved victims 16 to 34 years old. Most were forcibly removed from Canada and married abroad.

Former mob boss received hefty tax refund despite owing $1.5M

The federal government has confirmed that a former Mafia don was given an undeserved cheque for $381,737.

A spokesman for Revenue Minister Kerry-Lynne Findlay says the unwarranted tax refund has since been recovered and he suggested Thursday that federal employees responsible could face punishment.

The statement came after a published report that the Canada Revenue Agency gave the since-deceased Nick Rizzuto that refund when, in fact, he owed the taxman $1.5 million.

Rizzuto had just been arrested as part of a sweeping police operation in November 2006 and sent to prison. The elderly Mob boss was eventually released, and was murdered in his kitchen in 2010.

Enquete, an investigative program on Radio-Canada, says Rizzuto received a cheque dated Sept. 13, 2007 for more than $381,000. A photo of a cheque worth $381,737 made out to Rizzuto was posted on Radio-Canada's website on Wednesday.

Radio-Canada, the French-language CBC network, quoted Jean-Pierre Paquette, a former Canada Revenue Agency auditor, as saying he told the Rizzuto family not to cash the cheque and that he even went to Rizzuto's home to get the cheque.

Paquette said he believes the cheque was probably the work of a corrupt civil servant. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Vancouver

Man charged in toilet-cam case surrenders to police

The co-owner of a former high-end Vancouver restaurant who has been charged with observing or recording people while they were naked on a tiny camera allegedly hidden in a bathroom has turned himself in to police.

Vancouver police Const. Brian Montague said Thursday that Allan Bosomworth turned himself in to sheriffs at the provincial courthouse Wednesday and was escorted to the Vancouver jail.

Bosomworth was charged Sept. 11 with one count of "secretly observing nudity in a private place," and just two days later was named in an arrest warrant. Two former servers have said the second owner at the restaurant told them he found the camera in the eatery's bathroom while cleaning. The second owner has not been charged with anything.

Woman 'humiliated' in medical exam, court martial told

Court martial. Retired petty officer 2nd class James Wilks faces 26 sexual-assault and breach-of-trust charges involving 16 women

Former military medical technician James Wilks at his court martial.
FRED CHARTRAND/THE CANADIAN PRESS

A former military medical technician left women feeling uncomfortable and even "humiliated" after he touched or looked at their breasts during physical examinations, a court martial heard Thursday.

The second day of a court martial for James Wilks, a petty officer second class who is now retired, featured the testimony of several women who described similar experiences of having their breasts and nipples fondled during exams.

Their identities are protected under a publication ban.

One of the women said Wilks ordered her to expose her breasts so he could touch them during a physical exam.

She said he spent a minute or two touching her breasts before ordering her to pull up her hospital gown and get off the examination table.

The woman choked up several times as she spoke.

She described how Wilks then told her to bend over and touch her toes while she was wearing only the gown and her underwear.

She said he ordered her to keep her hands on her toes when she tried to keep her loose-fitting underpants from slipping. Wilks pulled up her underpants and held her gown as she was bent over, the court martial heard.

"I was humiliated," she said.

She told the court martial Wilks was "very firm" and didn't give her the impression a breast exam was optional. She described him as "intimidating."

Maj. David Hodson, who represents Wilks, accused the witness of fabricating the episode. Wilks faces 26 sexual-assault and breach-of-trust charges involving 16 women over six years. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Cross-border energy. Harper talks tough in New York on pipeline

Canada won't "take no for an answer" from the U.S. when it comes to the Keystone XL pipeline, Prime Minister Stephen Harper said Thursday.

The logic in support of the project going ahead is "overwhelming," and governments at all levels on both sides of the Canada-U.S. border are endorsing it, Harper told a high-powered business audience in New York.

"My view is that you don't take no for an answer," Harper said. "We haven't had that. If we were to get that, that won't be final. This won't be final until it's approved and we will keep pushing forward."

Harper also dismissed the divide between his government and the White House over projections of how many jobs Keystone XL will create.

Kingston prison closing its doors

Canada's Alcatraz. Kingston pen has been home to serial killers such as Clifford Olson and Paul Bernardo

Child killers, rapists, drunks, horse thieves and even boys and girls have all spent time within its high, foreboding walls. Hard time.

Within days, however, its cells will be empty and the historic Kingston Penitentiary, the country's most notorious prison, officially closes.

Since its opening in June 1835, the lakeside "pen" some have dubbed Canada's Alcatraz has been home to assorted miscreants and a veritable who's who of the country's worst criminals.

In recent times, the list includes serial child killer Clifford Olson; Paul Bernardo, who raped and killed two schoolgirls; and Mohammad Shafia, who helped drown his three teenaged daughters.

Appropriately, perhaps, it's long been known by prisoners as the Hall of Shame.

Lee Chapelle, a property offender who spent relatively short stints in "KP" in 2001 and 2008, says it was an old rundown dirty "dungeon" that stood out among the various prisons he'd been in.

"The moment you go through the gates, there is a darkness about it," Chapelle said from Goderich, Ont.

"You feel the heaviness in the air."

The penitentiary, among the oldest continuously used prisons in the world, is closing because the federal government says it is outdated and too expensive to run. Its future, perhaps as some kind of tourist attraction, is uncertain.

What is certain is that if its tiny, windowless cells and thick stone walls could speak, they would tell stories of violence — perpetrated by, and on, those sent to the infamous Big House.

Hells Angel reportedly dead after police close in Montreal. Quebec police targeted a small cottage that the Hells Angel was believed to have been hiding in

A top member of the Hells Angels biker gang is reportedly dead following a confrontation with police early Thursday, 10 days after he fled from a minimum-security prison where he was approaching the final years of a murder sentence.

Sûreté du Québec investigators were drawn to a remote island near Sorel, about 100 kilometres northeast of Montreal, armed with an arrest warrant for an individual who had escaped custody, according to a spokesperson for the Montreal police, which is investigating the suspicious death.

The spokesperson, Sgt. Laurent Gingras, would not confirm multiple Quebec media reports that the person in the confrontation was René Charlebois, a close associate of Hells Angels boss Maurice "Mom" Boucher.

What Should You Do if Someone is Having a Heart Attack?

W. Gifford-Jones, MD

It has been widely talked about for many years so it doesn't come as a big surprise... heart disease, strokes and heart attacks are at an all-time high, affecting millions of Canadians. In fact, about 8 out of 10 Canadians are at risk of developing cardiovascular disease - a devastating illness that 74,000 people die from each year.

What exactly is a heart attack?

When the blood supply to the heart is slowed or stopped because of a blockage, a heart attack occurs. Atherosclerosis, the narrowing of coronary arteries due to plaque buildup, causes more than 90% of heart attacks. A heart attack may also occur when a coronary artery temporarily contracts or goes into a severe spasm, shutting off blood flow to the heart.

Not all people who have heart attacks experience the same symptoms or experience them to the same degree. Many heart attacks aren't as dramatic as the ones you've seen on TV. Some people have no symptoms at all, while for others, the first sign may be sudden cardiac arrest. Still, the more signs and symptoms, the greater the likelihood that person may be having a heart attack. The severity of heart attack symptoms can vary too. Some people have mild pain, while others experience severe pain.

A heart attack can occur anytime — at work or play, while you're resting, or while you're in motion. Some heart attacks strike suddenly, but many people who experience a heart attack have warning signs and symptoms hours, days or weeks in advance. The earliest warning of a heart attack may be recurrent chest pain (angina) that is triggered by exertion. Angina is caused by a temporary decrease in blood flow to the heart.

Common symptoms include:

- Pressure, tightness, pain, or a squeezing or aching sensation in the chest or arms. It may also spread to the neck, jaw or back.
- Nausea, indigestion, heartburn or abdominal pain
- Shortness of breath
- Sweating or a cold sweat
- Feelings of anxiety or an impending sense of doom
- Fatigue
- Trouble sleeping
- Light-headedness or dizziness

What to do if you see someone having a heart attack?

If you encounter someone who is unconscious from a presumed heart attack, call for emergency medical help If you have received training in emergency procedures, begin cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR). This helps deliver oxygen to the body and brain.

According to the American Heart Association, regardless of whether you've been trained, you should begin CPR with chest compressions. Press down about 2 inches (5 centimeters) on the person's chest at a rate of about 100 a minute. If you've been trained in CPR, check the person's airway and deliver rescue breaths after every 30 compressions. If you haven't been trained, continue compressions until help arrives.

If you are experiencing any warning signs, you should call 9-1-1 or your local emergency number right away, or have someone call for you. Stop all activity and sit or lie down in a position that is most comfortable and try to remain calm until help arrives.

What can you do to improve your heart health?

Dr. Linus Pauling, two-time Noble Prize winner, reported 25 years ago that humans do not make their own Vitamin C. He also found that Vitamin C is needed to manufacture healthy collagen, the glue that holds coronary cells together, just like mortar is needed for bricks. Lysine, like steel rods in cement, makes collagen stronger. Dr. Pauling also found that taking several thousand milligrams of Vitamin C a day can help to remove artery blockages and help to prevent a heart attack. Prevention is your best strategy for a strong and healthy cardiovascular system.

Ex-president convicted of war crimes

Historic verdict. Taylor is the first head of state convicted by the international war crimes court since World War II

More than a decade after fuelling a murderous campaign of terror in Sierra Leone by supplying rebels with arms, Charles Taylor was definitively convicted and imprisoned Thursday for 50 years, in a ruling that finally delivered justice for victims.

The appeals chamber of the Special Court for Sierra Leone upheld the 65-year-old former Liberian president's conviction on 11 counts of war crimes and crimes against humanity, including terrorism, murder, rape and using child soldiers.

Taylor is the first former head of state convicted by an international war crimes court since World War II and Thursday's confirmation was welcomed as underscoring a new era of accountability for heads of state.

"This is a historic and momentous day for the people of Sierra Leone and the region," UN Secretary-General Ban Ki-moon said in a statement.

"The judgment is a significant milestone in international criminal justice, as it confirms the conviction of a former head of state for aiding, abetting and planning war crimes and crimes against humanity."

Julia and Emma Mogus:
Acting on solutions

ASTRID VAN DEN BROEK
For Metro

When you meet Julia and Emma Mogus, it's hard not to be impressed by their project, Books With No Bounds. After all, the initiative, which launched in June 2012, involves collecting and sending books (27,000 to date) to the Nishnawbe Aski Nations to help improve the educational opportunities for its Aboriginal youth.

But keep probing and you will find out that these Oakville-based sisters have a history of helping others. Julia, Emma and their younger brother Jack are involved in shoreline clean-ups at Coronation Park. They participate in the White Oaks Free The Children Committee and the TD Tree Day to plant trees.

"We started volunteering when we were younger," said Emma, 14, who, after working as a page at Queen's Park, is considering a future in politics. "Actually, we were competitive figure skaters and we taught figure skating to younger kids and that just kind of helped find our love for helping people."

But why donate books?

It was, in fact, while working as a page that Emma found out about, and was inspired by, the Lieutenant Governor's Aboriginal Book Drive, a program launched by James Bartleman, the first Aboriginal lieutenant-governor, who credited education with helping him out of poverty.

Or perhaps it's because the girls grew up without cable TV, which helped foster their literary love — Emma's favourite book is Life Of Pi while Julia's is Harry Potter And The Order Of The Phoenix.

"We just had that passion for reading and wanted other children to have that same opportunity," said Julia, 16, who is thinking about a future in law.

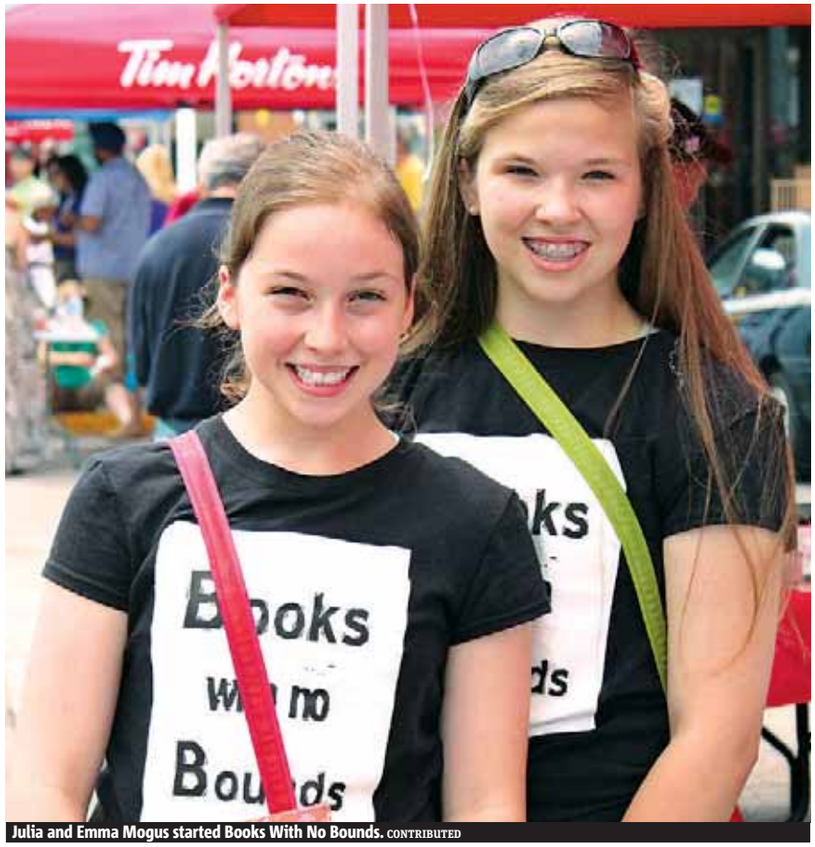
Admirable quality

"They don't say it's too much work or impossible. They just act on fixing the problem right away, and it's a quality I admire very much."
Janet Mogus, mother of Julia and Emma

But mom Janet thinks there is more to it that galvanizes her girls.

"Both of them are headstrong young women who've always stood up to what was right rather than what was easy," she said.

"Anyone who's ever met them will tell you they don't sit on solutions to problems. They don't say it's too much work or impossible. They just act on fixing the problem right away, and it's a quality I admire very much."



Julia and Emma Mogus started Books With No Bounds. CONTRIBUTED

Digital giants boost economy by $7.3B

New report. Industry also faces challenges including lack of R&D and skilled workers

Facebook, YouTube and other digital platforms contribute $7.3 billion a year to Canada's economy and employ nearly 80,000 people, a report says

Whether they're being used to disseminate music, provide remote access to health care, or interact with customers, digital platforms are transforming businesses and creating efficiencies, said the report called Canada's Digital Imperative: Measuring Digital Platform's Labour Market and Economic Impact.

However, the industry also faces challenges, including constraints on corporate resources, lack of skilled workers, and inadequate research and development, the report by the Information and Communications Technology Council found.

"Digital platforms are increasingly providing enterprises with greater connectivity, resulting in profound changes in the way they do business and ... deliver digital content," the report said.

The report defines digital platforms as anything that allows content producers and consumers to interact, including social media such as Facebook, user-generated content such as YouTube and meeting applications such as WebEx.

The industry is expected to double within five years to $14.8 billion a year in revenue, while employment is expected to increase by more than one-quarter, creating 22,000 new jobs by 2018, the report estimates.

Most of the revenue and jobs are attributed to companies that have adopted digital platforms. Canadian companies that provide digital platform services represent less than 20 per cent of the sector, the report said.

Three-quarters of Canadian businesses say they use at least one digital platform for communicating either with staff or customers or suppliers, the study found. Nearly half said using digital platforms helped cut costs. Half also said digital platforms significantly improved customer service.

Twitter, NFL ink deal to show football videos

The National Football league has struck a deal to show game highlights and other video content on Twitter ahead of the micro-messaging service's initial public offering of stock.

The deal is part of Twitter's Amplify program, which lets TV broadcasters show ad-supported video clips in users' Twitter feeds as users discuss what they are watching on TV. Other partners include The Weather Channel, the National Basketball Association, Warner Music and CBS.

The NFL and Twitter said Thursday that the deal will let football fans interact with NFL video content created specifically for Twitter — on computers, tablets or mobile devices. Content will include highlights from NFL Network's Thursday Night Football and clips from other regular season and post-season games, along with news, analysis and fantasy football advice.

Rogers, Sprint to offer wireless system in cars

Rogers Communications and U.S. wireless carrier Sprint Corp. say they will offer Canadians high-speed Internet access in their vehicles through a new service announced Thursday.

They said the service will be available from auto manufacturers that deploy Sprint's Velocity system in Canada and it will leverage Rogers' wireless networks to connected vehicles on the road.

Vehicles with Sprint Velocity — which has already been deployed in the United States — will have access to news, sports scores, weather alerts, driving directions and vehicle diagnostics via an in-dash touch screen, they say.

Sprint Velocity also provides connectivity for mobile devices in the car including smartphones and tablets. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Chilean court stops short of nixing Barrick permit

Pascua-Lama mine. Company must finish watershed protection work before resuming construction on project

The Supreme Court of Chile has upheld a decision by regulators that halted construction at Barrick Gold Corp.'s troubled Pascua-Lama project until it completes work to keep it from contaminating the watershed below.

However, the court stopped short of ordering a re-evaluation of the company's environmental permit — a bigger obstacle that had been sought by an indigenous community living below the $8.5-billion US project.

Barrick said Thursday it was "pleased that the ruling allows the project to advance in compliance with all legal and regulatory requirements."

"Barrick has submitted a plan to Chilean regulatory authorities which estimates completion of the water management system by the end of 2014," the gold miner said.

The country's environmental watchdog agency ordered construction stopped earlier this year until Barrick meets its environmental promises.

John Ing, president of Maison Placements in Toronto, said the final cost of the project may be a bigger barrier for Pascua-Lama than the environmental concerns.

"This is proving to be, I believe, the world's most expensive gold mine," Ing said. "One questions — in a capital-short environment — whether Barrick should be actually going slow or in fact should be putting it in mothballs."

Ing said when Barrick decided to go ahead with Pascua-Lama, the environment for big projects was different.

"Today the environment is a lot more hostile for big projects. Mega projects bring mega problems, that's been the history over the last few years for the gold miners," he said.

Lorenzo Soto, who represents about 550 Diaguita Indians, told The Associated Press that the Supreme Court's decision is important and satisfactory but short of what they wanted. "We disagree with the court, however, because it didn't allow for our request to annul the project's environmental permit," Soto said.

The troubled project on the border between Chile and Argentina was initially expected to be producing gold and silver this year, but the company now targets production by mid-2016.

Officials in Argentina have been eager to keep building, but most of the estimated 18 million ounces of gold and 676 million ounces of silver are buried on the Chilean side.

Agriculture. U.S., Japan sign deal on organics

The United States and Japan have agreed to make it easier to import each other's organic products, the latest step in a global effort that could give consumers access to more — and cheaper — organic food.

The U.S. Agriculture Department announced an agreement Thursday that will allow organic products to be certified in one of the countries and be sold as organic in both. Producers will be able to sell their products in both countries without going through the lengthy process of getting certified twice.

The agreement is similar to a 2009 deal with Canada and a 2012 deal with the European Union. Agriculture officials say they are looking at agreements with other countries — South Korea, and possibly India, Brazil and Mexico down the road — that could also make it easier for U.S. organic farmers to sell abroad.

The result could be a flow of new products to the U.S. market and higher profits for U.S. organic producers. According to USDA, the most popular organic imports from Japan are green tea, organic sakes and organic mushrooms. The department said the Canadian agreement has increased exported organic grains to the United States, and the European pact has increased sales of their organic wines and olive oils in the U.S.

The United States exports many more organics to Japan than it imports from the country, and officials say the agreement will be a boost for the burgeoning U.S. industry — one of the fastest-growing sectors of agriculture. Organics have seen sales rise around four per cent to five per cent a year and now account for more than $30 billion US in annual sales.

Japan imports the Americans' soybeans, specialty crops like cauliflower and nuts, and processed products like frozen meals. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sales to Japan

$80M

Annual organic sales to Japan from the United States now total around $80 million US, and the USDA estimates the new agreement could more than triple that amount to $250 million US a year over the next 10 years.

Ireland's alco-holiday prompts introspection

Dublin. Arthur's Day, a Guinness-sponsored annual festival, leaves a bad taste for many

Arthur's Day, an annual celebration invented by Guinness, is seen by some as a chance to see surprise performances by top musical acts. But others see it as an event that compounds Ireland's alcohol culture. LIZ BEDDALL/METRO FILE

Ireland's love affair with pub and pint is sparking national soul-searching as never before because of an unofficial holiday dreamed up by Guinness.

Thursday's celebrations of Arthur's Day, honouring the 18th-century founder of Ireland's quintessential drink, featured surprise musical performances in 815 pubs and clubs across Ireland as well as concerts worldwide from Malaysia to Jamaica.

Launched in 2009, Guinness says the annual festivities provide a needed tonic for a 7,500-strong Irish pub network struggling to maintain profits in the face of a five-year debt crisis that has ravaged employment and incomes.

Many pubs are offering free pints of the dark brown stout at 5:59 p.m. — a reference to the founding of Guinness in 1759 — followed by the appearance of a band or singer, among them internationally popular acts, many kept secret until that moment. All entertainers are paid by Guinness' British parent, Diageo.

"It's really a musical treasure hunt. It's one of my favourite nights of the year," said David Doolan, a 28-year-old software engineer who plans to follow tweeted tip-offs as musical acts turn up in Dublin pubs. He's caught parts of impromptu performances by Tom Jones, Mumford & Sons and Stereophonics in past festivities.

But this year, Guinness has been put on the defensive amid surging protests that Arthur's Day is compounding an alcoholic culture that costs Ireland about $5.15 billion annually in hung-over workers, a Europe-leading rate of liver disease, late-night vandalism and violence in hospital emergency rooms.

"They shouldn't call it Arthur's Day. They should call it Vomit Day," said Aisling Fitzsimons, a 50-year-old manager of a convenience store who says she has to hose down the sidewalk outside most weekends.

Two performers who definitely aren't playing are Irish folk singer Christy Moore and the Celtic rock band The Waterboys. Both have penned anti-Arthur's Day songs that harness an Irish sense of unease of being played for fools by a brewing behemoth.

"Arthur's alco-holiday is coming 'round again. He's the patron saint of porter, canonized by the advertising men," Moore, a recovering alcoholic, sang Wednesday night during a nationally televised debate on state broadcasters RTE focused on the Guinness promotional machine.

The song's punchline predicted that Ireland's emergency rooms would be transformed into "drunk tanks" while "Diageo goes AWOL at closing time."

Ireland's Royal College of Physicians has appealed for a public boycott of Arthur's Day and says Diageo is contributing to a doubling of deaths by liver disease since 1995.

Retail. Private-label pioneer Dave Nichol dead at age 73

Dave Nichol, the folksy pitchman for the popular President's Choice brand, didn't just change the face of grocery marketing in Canada, he became it.

Nichol appeared in TV ads and newsletters for the President's Choice and No Name brands in the '80s and '90s. He was seen as an innovator who built the PC brand into one of the most-recognized brands at the Loblaws grocery chain, and one of the country's top labels.

The native of Chatham, Ont., died Sunday at age 73.

Many of Nichol's products are still on shelves, including the Decadent Chocolate Chip Cookie.

"He really started the idea in marketing of 'we're not talking at you, we're talking with you' and the idea of starting a dialogue with consumers," said David Soberman, a marketing professor at the University of Toronto's Rotman School of Management.

Nichol's success was tied to two key elements, he said. "He actually had a very sort of friendly and honest personality on television. He was just sort of a likable person ... that's something that's sometimes hard to find in marketing."

"Also, he delivered. He was very sensitive to the consumers that would buy the products and wouldn't do marketing that didn't leave to the President's Choice promise of, 'We're going to offer you quality.'"

Before Nichol, private label brands at grocery stores were seen as cheaper, lower-quality alternatives to behemoth brands. THE CANADIAN PRESS

GLOBAL CHANGE NO SMALL GRATIFRY

THE METRO LIST

Neil Morton
metronews.ca

1 Social Good Summit. This conference in New York was trending on Twitter under the hashtag #2030now. It focuses on the innovative role new media can play in shaping long-term sustainable solutions to the planet's ills, from human rights to poverty. Actor/social do-gooder Ian Somerhalder was on one panel and said we can use social media "to create quantifiable change globally." Let's do it.

2 Terry Fox. Canada's national treasure, who has inspired generations with his Marathon of Hope to raise awareness and money for cancer research, was inducted into Canada's Walk of Fame Saturday. The fight on Terry's behalf will continue until a cure is found. You can watch the Walk of Fame Awards on Oct. 27 on Global.

3 #WeirdEmmys. The Emmys were trippy and awkward, starting with Will Arnett's orange glow tan and continuing with the curious picks for winners and the, er, lifeless tributes to recently deceased actors. Many people ended up switching to Breaking Bad or, in my case, to the season premiere of Battle of the Blades on CBC. Or it just put them to sleep before they could even channel-surf.

4 Dream Job. Richard Peddie, the former CEO of Maple Leaf Sports and Entertainment, has a new book, Dream Job, coming out Oct. 22. It promises to take us behind the scenes at MLSE and inside the boardrooms and dressing rooms of major-league sports. This is a must-read — but one I wish included a chapter on a Stanley Cup or NBA title run for the Leafs or Raptors.

5 Agents of S.H.I.E.L.D. Marvel's newest TV series, an offshoot of The Avengers, premiered Tuesday on ABC to great ratings — fuelled by a buzz campaign that saw it achieve one million fans on its Facebook page before it even aired, apparently a new record for a series launch. Further proof that everything good can be traced back to social media.

6 Dragons' Den Season 8. The iconic Canadian show that has inspired countless entrepreneurs begins its eighth season next Wednesday (Oct. 2) at 8 p.m. on CBC. Special episodes this year include an only-in-Canada episode highlighting products that only Canucks could have drummed up. Such as scrotum lotion. I'm scratching my head wondering why I didn't come up with that first.

7 River Phoenix. A book called Last Night at the Viper Room, due out in October, tells the life and death story of acclaimed actor River Phoenix at age 23 in 1993. The teen idol (Stand By Me) died of a drug overdose in front of the West Hollywood club. What Cory Monteith was to the tweens/teens of this generation, River was to those of his generation.

8 Breaking Bad. The finale of this show, considered one of the best dramas ever, is this Sunday on AMC. Now that it's over, I think it's about time I start watching it and discover how remarkable Bryan Cranston is.

9 Anna Faris. It's always amusing to see people get on Twitter and figure out how it works. Like actress Anna Faris, who started tweeting recently, and had gems like this: "What the heck is retweeting? And why does it feel so good?" And, "I feel like the world needs to know that mayonnaise is my favorite condiment #amisupposedtohashtageverytime."

10 Gratifries. You can now get a Whopper with lower-fat french fries, as Burger King is introducing Gratifries, which have 40 per cent less fat and 30 per cent fewer calories than rival fast-food fries. Now McDonald's has to introduce a GratiMac to answer the bell.

Breaking through child labour in Africa

At first glance, it looks as though these students share the same struggles as any other student: homework assignments, curfew and chores.

But in actual fact they have worked hard with their community for the chance to obtain an education in a village that is plagued with child labour in the oil palm industry.

One-third of children in Nyameyiekrom, in the western region of Ghana, cannot attend school because they are needed to chop oil palm fruits with heavy bladed poles by climbing high up the trees. METRO

Free the Children

- In 2008, the community of Nyameyiekrom built a small school out of bamboo for four teachers and 288 students.
- Free the Children has since built an additional school room, and are confident they will be completing more rooms with latrines and water sources in the future.

Whether you watch the show or not, a glance at Twitter or eavesdropping on co-worker conversations makes it perfectly clear we've hit peak Breaking Bad. If you do watch the series, there's going to be a substantial hole to fill in your free time after Sunday's finale. These will do the trick.

Orphan Black:

The other performance/show certain folks couldn't stop talking about this year was the mighty Tatiana Maslany swapping costumes and characters as if she were brushing away a fly in this Toronto-based sci-fi clone mystery. (Available for purchase on iTunes)

Peep Show:

We don't know what's in store for us Sunday night, but we can all be pretty confident it will be bleak. Cleanse the palate on one of the U.K.'s funniest shows. A simple Odd Couple setup shot entirely from the characters' first-person perspective, it's an endlessly entertaining parade of bad behaviour and poor life decisions. (Streaming on Netflix)

House of Cards:

No, not the Kevin Spacey joint that peppered bus stops and subway stations when it debuted a while back. Head for the BBC original, where the increased subtlety of the scheming nicely reflects the difference between the U.S. and British political systems. (Streaming on Netflix)

RE: Food Bank Users Up In Most Of GTA: Survey, published Sept. 24

It made me angry to read this article.

How is this man, Emmanuel Kimuli, able to collect food weekly from a food bank, collect a cheque from the Ontario Disability Support Program (which is a benefit for those with a disability) while he is perfectly capable to volunteer at the food bank and earn income from his "one-man repair and renovation business?"

This should not be allowed as it is not fair to those who try hard to earn an honest living without depleting the limited resources Social Services has to offer, or who genuinely need assistance.

When is the government going to crack down on this type of fraud? Perhaps this action alone will help build the economic strength of the City of Toronto.

Synopsis

When we first meet Niki Lauda (Daniel Brühl) and James Hunt (Chris Hemsworth) they are third stringers, talented Formula Three drivers desperate for a chance to move up to the big show. Bad blood flows between the two, stemming back to an incident when Hunt edged Lauda off the track the first time they faced off against one another. Cut to the 1976 Formula One season. Lauda seems unstoppable, until tragedy strikes and Lauda is badly burned in a fiery crash. During his recuperation Hunt rises in the ranks, leading to a showdown for the World Championship at the Japan Grand Prix.

RICHARD CROUSE AND MARK BRESLIN

Some spark, some fumes

Rush. Ron Howard's race flick leaves the romantic storyline in the pit and allows the realism of those hairpin turns to tell the story

Richard: Mark, in some ways Rush is a paint-by-numbers story — Formulaic One, maybe? — of opposites.

Lauda and Hunt face off in predictable ways — the kind of thing we've seen in other sports films — but the film really takes off in its second half when the characters show some growth and the racing scenes take centre stage.

Director Ron Howard takes us inside the cars — literally.

The races are exciting, visceral and as close as I'll ever get to rounding a hairpin curve at super sonic speeds. What did you think?

Mark: The races are well done, no doubt.

But there has to be more, and often there is. I loved the groovy Euro-'70s milieu of the movie, the sensuality of the cars themselves, and the behind-the-scenes politics of the Formula One game. But the movie is episodic, and lacks — wait for the pun — narrative drive.

Chris Hemsworth is an arrogant rogue in the Lightning McQueen mode, but Daniel Brühl plays a rival racer with the soul of an actuary.

Neither of them are exactly nice guys; in fact, they're a couple of grand prix.

RC: Ha! I liked Brühl.

It would have been easy to play Lauda as a one-note egotist, but as his character finds his passion after the horrific accident, Brühl adds complexity, bringing him to life as a fully rounded man.

Hemsworth hammers it home, proving there is more to him than playing superhero Thor in The Avengers movies, but I really thought Brühl showed the most range.

MB: Burning half your face off will often give you that range.

He goes from a man who won't smile to one who can't smile.

But he's also an unsympathetic martinet for a lot of the movie, and I kept waiting for Ron Howard to go back to the Hemsworth story, which was more fun. How do you think the movie stacks up against classic racing movies like Le Mans or Winning?

RC: I think it compares well to movies like Winning, Grand Prix and Days of Thunder, but the racing flick it has most in common with has to be Le Mans, just for sheer speed-demon spirit. Remember Steve McQueen's famous quote about racing? "Anything that happens before or after ... is just waiting."

MB: A good quote indeed. I thought Rush was a bit more realistic than the other movies, less romanticized, and had the balance of storyline and racing just about right.

Watermark

Directors. Jennifer Baichwal, Edward Burtynsky

In what may possibly be considered a sequel to her award-winning 2006 doc Manufactured Landscapes, Jennifer Baichwal (now teaming up with that film's shutterbug subject Edward Burtynsky) creates a stunningly beautiful study of water and humankind's dependence (or neglect) of it. For almost every majestic, carefully framed shot, there lies a horror beneath, but the filmmakers succeed by avoiding didacticism and instead skillfully shower the viewer with a cascade of contemplation.

Stars. Joseph Gordon-Levitt, Scarlett Johansson

For a first attempt at writing and directing a movie, Don Jon is a promising peek at what Joseph Gordon-Levitt may have up his sleeve. In the case of this R-rated inception into filmmaking, it's a profane portrayal of a young porn-addicted Romeo who falls for the seemingly ideal woman (Scarlett Johansson). As the film progresses, Gordon-Levitt's storyline slumps a bit by repetition, but compelling performances (and a couple clever cameos) definitely compensate this crass comedy.

She orchestrates a series of run-ins with ex-boyfriends in the hopes one has matured into a suitable match. Meanwhile, her best friend William, her shoulder to lean on, waits in the wings. Anchored by a mellow, dramatic performance from Paula Patton, there isn't a scene in this movie that hasn't been done better before. Romantic comedies don't get let of the hook the way horror and sci-fi flicks do, but even by the genre's low standards, Baggage Claim falls short. IAN GORMELY

It is difficult to imagine how anyone who's not already a fan might care about Metallica: Through the Never (although a band that has sold 100 million albums globally has a pretty solid base). In what's essentially a 90-minute music video, the concert film weaves a strong riot-themed narrative amidst the metal legends' greatest hits. While filmmaker Nimrod Antal makes it all palatable on the screen, you'll still feel pretty assaulted by the monotony — unless you're a metal-head.

Batman vs. Superman screenwriter won't bow to fan pressure

Superheroes don't ever bow to fan pressure — that's according to screenwriter David S. Goyer, who is co-writing the new Batman vs. Superman movie.

He's currently working on the script for the upcoming comic-book character showdown with director Zack Snyder.

Goyer says, "If I try to think about, 'Well, what would the fans like?' then you stop being creative."

Goyer worked on the Dark Knight trilogy and has the Man of Steel screenplay under his belt, so he's used to doing a little battle with popular opinion.

And Batman vs. Superman" is set for a summer 2015 release.

DVD. Iron Man 3 writer puts his own mark on the franchise

Despite writing its script, Drew Pearce wishes Iron Man 3 could have featured more Jon Favreau, who plays Happy Hogan in the blockbuster.

There was a lot of Favreau in the first two films, which follow billionaire Tony Stark, who moonlights as a superhero. Favreau also directed the two movies before being replaced by Shane Black, who co-wrote the script with Pearce.

So you can forgive Pearce for forgetting he and Black actually cut some of the former director's scenes from the film.

"There are things that are cut in the final two weeks because that's when you make some of your biggest editorial decisions. ... So Shane and I will be talking and forget that a scene like Jon's didn't even make it in the movie."

Iron Man 3 comes out on Blu-ray and DVD on Tuesday.

"I think we need to make another movie about how we made this movie," says Sandra Bullock on the filming of Gravity, her new lost-in-space film.

The Heat star plays Dr. Ryan Stone, an astronaut untethered from her space shuttle following a debris storm. Cut loose from her space partner (George Clooney) and her ride to Earth, she drifts through the inky darkness until discovering a way to survive.

"The film is about adversities, and we were going through adversities," says director Alfonso Cuarón. "Everything was a big challenge."

Technically, the shoot was arduous. Recreating the zero-gravity of space required Bullock to learn to move at 30 per cent of her usual speed, and to be trussed up like a marionette on a 12-wire system and other torturous devices.

"We had a consultant from Guantanamo Bay come in," jokes Cuarón.

Emotionally the shoot also presented issues. How could Bullock portray the impassioned inner life of the character when covered with a helmet and spacesuit for much of the performance?

"I think every actor will tell you that they are always panicked about being able to convey something with the least amount of preciousness," she says. "If all you have are your eyes or your face, just feel it truthfully. For me, I didn't think about being behind the visor. It was still my whole body feeling it.

"But a lot of times you'd feel yourself emoting something and they'd say, 'No, we didn't see anything.' I just had to trust in what (Cuarón) saw. I saw nothing. I heard nothing. I had him in my head and I just had to trust that.

"It's a weird profession. You have to unscrew your head and screw on this other head of what this other person is going through and you go, 'Wow, that's not a pretty place to live all day.'"

Working with Clooney, who she's known since before they both were famous, also provided support.

When she was having trouble with a particular scene, Clooney sent an email with a some suggestions on how to make it work. "It's not my business," he wrote, "so throw this in the trash or use it."

As it turns out, his ideas were bang-on. "That's the gift of knowing someone for so long," she says. "He gives you gold tidbits like that. It's sweet."

OPIOID DRUG USERS NEEDED

Healthy men and women ages 18 to 55 who have experience with snorting (inhaling through the nose) opioid drugs such as morphine, oxycodone, heroin or codeine for recreational use are needed for a clinical research study.

Study consists of one screening visit, one 3-day in-clinic qualification session, four 3-day in-clinic treatment periods, and a follow-up visit. The time commitment for the study will be about 7 weeks.

Compensation for time and expenses is available up to $3730.

Little moments tell a big story in John F. Kennedy film

Parkland. Movie relives Kennedy's assassination and doesn't shy away from focusing on the infamous day's 'supporting characters'

NED EHRBAR
Metro World News in Hollywood

Colin Hanks joins a huge cast to relive the assassination of John F. Kennedy and the days that followed in Parkland, coming out as the 50th anniversary of the event itself approaches. It gave Hanks a unique view on history and, as the chief surgeon on duty at Parkland Memorial Hospital that day, a chance to play doctor.

It's got to be an interesting challenge playing for this kind of historical accuracy.

The whole goal of this was to show it as it really was, not to play up the importance in that here's this incredibly important day that people will talk about for the next century or the next 40 or 50 years. We were really playing the importance of, "This is happening right now." The whole point of this film is to look at those moments that have been overlooked, that are not necessarily the first thing that people think about when they think about the Kennedy assassination. The stories of the people that were involved — that I call the sort of supporting characters that were on the periphery — they were thrust into a scenario where obviously for the rest of their lives they were thinking about this. So for me, I was really interested in trying to capture that elusive sort of moment in time where you just don't know what's going on and you're just trying to get your bearings. And most of the time, you're failing.

In your research, was there anything you learned that surprised you?

Well, I mean there's tons of stuff. The idea that the same doctors were on call when Kennedy and Oswald were brought in, I had no idea. That they even brought them to the same hospital, those kinds of things. Those little moments of history I think are really the most fascinating, and I think are also quite frankly the ones that people gravitate toward. Those little moments, I think, always speak much louder than any of the specifics that you can get into.

How much discussion was there on set about the conspiracy theories or the Oliver Stone side of things?

None, none. There was really no conversation, none of us really talked about it. You know, obviously I was only there for a small portion of the filming. It was almost like we were making our own different films and we sort of threw them all together. But it was never really a conversation. I think the goal and purpose that we had was to be so focused on these three days to not think about anything else. So that was all that we were really focused on.

You're shooting in a very confined space.

Yeah, we had 25 people in a small room, you know? And two of them were holding cameras and there was a boom operator and that was it. So it was a different way of making the movie, but again we were just focusing on those real moments. It sounds redundant because you always try to do that in any job, but this one was a different kind of acting than what I was used to and a different kind of story. We're telling a different aspect of a story that people think they already know a lot about.

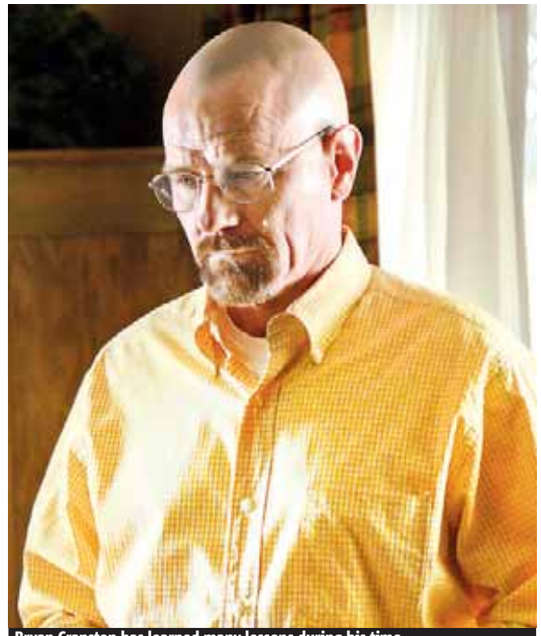
Bryan breaks down Breaking Bad's run

Series finale. Cranston talks about the role of a lifetime and how we're all capable of becoming a person like Heisenberg

NED EHRBAR
Metro World News in Hollywood



Bryan Cranston has learned many lessons during his time on Breaking Bad. CONTRIBUTED

I had the chance to visit the set of Breaking Bad a few months ago. It's close to freezing in downtown Albuquerque, N.M., but Bryan Cranston isn't allowed to let on that he's cold.

He and Aaron Paul are currently filming a scene in a public square, and though it's the dead of winter in real life, there's apparently no such thing as the dead of winter in the Breaking Bad universe.

"They try not to show really any season. It's like, light jackets, windbreakers. We're never in big jackets, you'll never see that. I always wear a T-shirt," Cranston explains.

"My hands are still cold right now."

And that can make shooting the hit series a bit uncomfortable.

"These are conditions; these are little things. Sometimes we're shooting in August and we have to look cool, and sometimes we're shooting in winter and we have to look hot," he says.

Weather woes are just one of the details we picked up from Cranston during a visit to the set of the hit series, a job that has earned Cranston awards and accolades and reinvented his career through playing high school teacher turned meth dealer Walter White. Here's what else we learned.

He doesn't know if Walt can be redeemed — and he doesn't care:

"Is it important? It's such a subjective viewpoint. I don't judge him," Cranston says. "This was all designed. This series is unlike any in the history of television. This show was meant to be discomforting. The hook was to make him sympathetic. We knew that if we could make you sympathize with him at first — in the first couple episodes, we were rooting for him. You were rooting for him to make crystal methamphetamine and sell it to the world. Why is that good? There is ambivalence even in that."

Dangerous

"My personal feeling is that every single human being is capable of becoming a Heisenberg of their own. I believe that anyone could become very dangerous."

Bryan Cranston
On playing Walter White

He has a hair strategy:

"I grow hair out. As soon as every season is done I start growing my hair and start growing my (facial) hair. So I would end up with a full beard and hair, and whatever job is next I would then be able to sculpt how I wanted that look," he says. "Just before Argo, I was shooting Total Recall in Toronto, and just before Total Recall, I was shooting Breaking Bad. Season four had just ended, I believe. So my hair was short and I wore a wig (for Total Recall), and then as my hair is growing, by the time Argo came along it was long enough to portray this CIA officer."

He can no longer dress himself:

"I don't care what a I look like. Look at me, I'm kind of a slob when I'm not dressed in Prada that someone dressed me and put on me and laid out for me," says Cranston, dressed comfortably in jeans and a plaid flannel shirt. "But I like it that way. I'm so used to people laying clothes out for me, like wardrobe people will. And my wife and daughter love doing that, so I don't have to pick out clothes except when I'm here and no one's around."

He's found his outlet:

"Some cope with medication, some cope with calming. I run, and when I run I spew," Cranston says. "I get rid of aggressions and anxieties, and I run. It's a solo act for me. I always sleep better, I always eat better because I feel good about what I've done, I'm more regular — all the things you don't want to know. And my wife now is like, 'Can you go run?' She can sense it. We all need an outlet, and you're lucky if you find it."

Everyone is capable of breaking bad:

"My personal feeling is that every single human being is capable of becoming a Heisenberg of their own. I believe that anyone could become very dangerous given the right set of circumstances, the right buttons being pushed," Cranston says.

Brad Pitt and Shia LaBeouf. ALL IMAGES GETTY

Attention! Wilderness bonding awaits for privates Pitt and LaBeouf

Brad Pitt, Shia LaBeouf and three other Fury cast-members were "ordered to go camping together" recently in the English countryside in preparation for the film, according to Us Weekly. "They play soldiers in the same World War II troop, and the director (David Ayer) wanted to make sure they bonded," a source says. "So he dropped them in the wilderness — without their cellphones."

Request for Volunteers

To facilitate community input into planning, development, and implementation of accessible transit, the Toronto Transit Commission relies on the TTC Advisory Committee on Accessible Transit (ACAT).

Its role is to represent the needs and concerns of people with disabilities and seniors who use the TTC. It provides guidance and policy advice to the Commission on issues pertaining to the ways and means of improving fixed route (i.e., TTC bus, subway, and streetcar) and Wheel-Trans services.

Five (5) volunteer positions on the committee are open to residents of the City of Toronto who have disabilities, as well as, seniors or others who have a knowledge of and an interest in, accessible transportation issues. Applicants must be willing to make a committment of a minimum of 7 hours per week, to attend meetings normally held during regular business hours.

Interested applicants must attend an information session at Toronto City Hall, 100 Queen Street West, to obtain more information about the committee and its function. Sessions will be held in Committee Room 2 on Tuesday, October 1st, 2013 from 1:00 p.m. to 3:00 p.m., and on Wednesday, October 2nd, 2013 from 7:00 p.m. to 9:00 p.m. Application forms will be distributed only to attendees after the seminars.

Those interested in attending the sessions who have any special needs, please call Wheel-Trans, weekdays 8:00 a.m. to 12:00 noon at 416-393-4180 or the TTY line at 416-393-4555 or email to acat@ttc.ca.

OUR TAKE ON THE WORLD OF CELEBRITIES

Open-minded Gwyneth tempts fate with fidelity comment

MELINDA TAUB
Metro World News in NYC

Cheating on your spouse is a big no-no for most people, unless you're married to a really chill, go with the flow kind of lady. You know, like Gwyneth Paltrow.

In her latest film, Thanks for Sharing, Paltrow plays a woman dating a sex addict, and she says she could handle it in real life if her spouse was unfaithful.

"I think that if the idea of being committed to someone is important to you, you begin to value certain parts of your social life over another. No couple is the same, and as such, every couple takes on different challenges. I would like to think that I would be forgiving and/or forgiven, but I can't give an honest answer as I haven't really experienced that," said Paltrow, who's married to Coldplay musician Chris Martin.

Paltrow would be totally cool about cheating, but it doesn't matter, because no one has ever, ever cheated on her. Got it.

The Iron Man star also said she'd be able to deal with dating a sex addict. "I'm an extremely open-minded person, so I think if it was something I knew I was getting myself into, I wouldn't let it deter me from exploring the relationship."

I love her. I really do.

Baking Beekman style: Buttermilk Pie

The Fabulous Beekman Boys. Josh Kilmer-Purcell and his partner Brent Ridge are still enjoying country life — and eats

Josh Kilmer-Purcell and Brent Ridge of The Fabulous Beekman Boys. CONTRIBUTED

This recipe serves eight. CONTRIBUTED

What do you do after leaving the hectic pace of New York City to buy a 19th century farmhouse in upstate New York?

If you're couple Josh Kilmer-Purcell and Brent Ridge, you launch a local produce company called Beekman 1802 (now one of the fastest growing lifestyle brands in the U.S.) and learn to be farmers — with cameras in tow. Then you race around the world on the Amazing Race — and win.

After their 2012 win, Kilmer-Purcell and Ridge are once again gracing TV screens with a new season of The Fabulous Beekman Boys (Tuesdays, 10 p.m. on Cottage Life TV).

The couple also recently published its first book — The Beekman 1802 Heirloom Dessert Cookbook: 100 Delicious Heritage Recipes from the Farm and Garden.

Of this Buttermilk Pie with Pecan Crust, the boys say, "This delectable pie is something Grandma might have made with pecans from the backyard tree and tangy buttermilk. This pie is sweet, rich and just plain lovely."

Ingredients

Crust
- 1 cup all-purpose flour (spooned into cup and levelled off)
- 1/3 cup pecans
- 3 tbsp granulated sugar
- 1/2 tsp salt
- 4 tbsp (1/2 stick) cold unsalted butter, cut into bits
- 1 large egg
- Flour for the work surface

Filling
- 11/4 cups granulated sugar
- 3 tbsp cornstarch
- 3 large eggs
- 6 tbsp (3/4 stick) unsalted butter, melted
- 11/3 cups buttermilk
- 1 tsp grated lemon zest
- 1/2 tsp freshly grated nutmeg
- Pecans for garnish (optional)

1. Crust: In food processor, combine flour, pecans, sugar, and salt and pulse until pecans are finely ground. Add butter and egg and pulse until dough holds together when pinched but does not form ball. Pat into a flat disk and refrigerate for at least 30 minutes or up to a day.

2. On a lightly floured work surface, roll out the dough to a 12-inch round. Roll dough around rolling pin and fit into a 9-inch pie plate without stretching it, pressing the dough into the bottom and against the sides of the pan. With a pair of scissors or a paring knife, trim the dough to leave a 1-inch overhang all around. Fold the overhang in over the rim to make a double layer of dough and, with your fingers, crimp the dough around the edge. Refrigerate for at least 1 hour before baking (this helps relax dough so it doesn't shrink when baking).

3. Preheat the oven to 400 F. Line the pie shell with foil or parchment paper, leaving an overhang, and fill with pie weights or dried beans to weight the crust down. Bake for 15 minutes, then remove the foil and weights and bake for 10 minutes longer or until golden. Remove the pie shell and leave the oven on but reduce the temperature to 325 F.

4. Filling: In food processor, combine sugar and cornstarch and pulse until combined. Add the eggs, butter, buttermilk, lemon zest, and nutmeg and process until combined.

5. Pour the mixture into the warm pie shell and bake for 55 minutes to 1 hour, or until the filling is set and just slightly wobbly in the centre. Let cool on a wire rack. Serve at room temperature or chilled, garnished with pecans, if you like.

How does fall know? As soon as the first day of autumn hits, there's a noticeable chill in the air and leaves start dropping faster than beats from a Jay Z album.

Actually, I love fall. There's Thanksgiving (my fave wine buying holiday), Halloween and a vibe in the air that gets my palate in the mood for a warming glass of whisky. The rustic aromas and robust flavours of whisky is a perfect foil for the season.

While Canadian whisky has languished in the shadow of its American, Irish and Scottish cousins for way too long, new artisan producers have taken the brown spirit category by storm. Nova Scotia's Glenora makes the only true Canuck single malt at its distillery in Glenville on Cape Breton Island. Though Glenora's Glen Breton Rare 10 Year Old Single Malt Canadian Whisky ($72.95 to $88.10) doesn't hide its Scottish influences, it adds its own twist with soft aromatics and a smooth attack on the palate.

Typically served on its own or over ice, it makes an appealing partner for many cheeses and desserts, especially the pecan-influenced pie sharing my page today.

Just Opened: Hudson Kitchen

It has already hosted celebs like Brad Pitt and Jennifer Aniston (on separate nights, naturally) during TIFF. Its chef hails from hot spots like URSA and Woodlot. And it's a proper-sized restaurant (not a hole in the wall, this one). Hudson Kitchen is officially open in soft launch, with an eclectic menu and amazing cocktails. Find it at 800 Dundas St. W.

Opening Soon: Drake 150

At 150 York St., in a 6,000 square foot space that once housed a bank, you'll now find Drake 150. It's the Drake Hotel's first stand-alone restaurant and it opens to the public next week. The pioneers of food/art/music-mixed dining in the city, Drake 150 takes the best of the original Drake Hotel's sensibilities and plants 'em square in the middle of the Financial District.

Just Opened: Kitten and the Bear

It's a spot grandma would love. Kitten and the Bear recently opened in Parkdale, at 1574 Queen St. W. One part tea room, one part old-fashioned charm, this new psuedo-restaurant/retail spot serves up, naturally beautiful teas and coffees as well as homemade preserves and scones. It's an ode to times gone by, but it's in the here and now.

Just Opened: Ole Ole Restaurant and Tequila Wine Bar

Fans of Kultura were devastated when its doors shut for a couple weeks not too long ago. But they've breathed a collective sigh of relief when its new incarnation, Ole Ole Restaurant and Tequila Wine Bar (169 King St. E.), opened up its doors. On the menu? Mexico meets Spain in the form of tacos and tapas, and Spanish wines and tequila cocktails dominate the drinks list.

VINTAGES' Taste Ontario

On Thursday, Oct. 10 at The ROM (100 Queen's Park) sip and savour your way through our gloriously gourmand province at VINTAGES' Taste Ontario Walk-around Tasting. For only $65, attendees will get to taste more than 80 wines from 30 wineries while meeting the passionate winemakers that are tirelessly proving that good things, like grapes, do indeed grow in Ontario.

Bliss Ball 2013

On Saturday at The Estates of Sunnybrook (2075 Bayview Ave.), join notables like Chris Noth, Katharine McPhee, Mario Lopez, Nicole Scherzinger, and Chef Mark McEwan at the 2013 Bliss Ball, supporting the Patient Amenities Fund at SickKids. Amazing food and drink, live entertainment, and an ode to the Jazz Age are all on the docket at this noteworthy event.

'Bones' Jones to face Teixera next

A rematch with Alexander Gustafsson will have to wait for Jon "Bones" Jones.

The UFC light-heavyweight champion is slated to meet Glover Teixeira next, as originally planned.

There was talk that the Brazilian's title shot might be delayed after UFC 165 earlier this month when Jones won a close decision over Gustafsson.

Thomas lands full-time gig in Florida

Tim Thomas is officially back in the NHL.

The Stanley Cup-winning goalie signed a one-year contract Thursday with the Florida Panthers, a move that was expected for several days. Financial terms were not released.

The team will also introduce Vincent Viola as its new owner on Friday, according to a person familiar with the situation.

Tuesday deadline for Leafs to extend Kessel

NHL. Sniper refuses to negotiate deal during the season; eligible to become UFA July 1

And now the focus shifts to Phil Kessel.

Now that Cody Franson has signed for the year, a little bit of juggling will have to be done for the Maple Leafs to get under the salary cap.

But the next big contract headache for the team is Kessel, the star winger who wants a deal by Tuesday, before the puck drops on the 2013-14 season. If no deal is reached — and it is believed both sides are talking — Kessel says he will not negotiate during the season.

That means the Leafs could risk losing Kessel to unrestricted free agency on July 1.

"Nothing yet," said assistant GM Claude Loiselle when asked if there has been any progress in talks. "And I would not report it anyway if we had something going on," he added with a smile.

Outside of being bag-skated extra hard until Tuesday, Kessel doesn't really have that much else to do thanks to his three-game suspension for slashing Buffalo's John Scott on Sunday. But he doesn't seem too concerned about his contract.

"I'm not worried about it. Nothing's happening as far as I know; just move on and get ready for the season," said Kessel. "We've got a good team and it will be a fun year for us and for the fans."

Phil Kessel could be in line for a contract extension if a deal can be hammered out before Tuesday's season opener. DAVID COOPER/TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

IOC convinced Russia will respect Olympic charter

Russian police officers detain a gay-rights activist in Moscow on Wednesday. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The International Olympic Committee doesn't have the authority to intervene in Russia's law banning gay propaganda and is convinced there will be no discrimination against athletes or spectators at the Winter Games in Sochi, a top Olympic official said Thursday.

Jean-Claude Killy, chairman of the IOC Coordination Commission, gave his stamp of approval of Russian preparations for the Games during a news conference at the conclusion of the commission's 10th and final visit to Sochi before the Olympics, which begin on Feb. 7.

Russia has come under scrutiny as the next host of the Olympics because of the law passed this summer outlawing "propaganda of nontraditional sexual relations among minors," which many worry may apply to gay athletes and visitors to the games.

Killy said the commission considered the issue carefully and in the end was fully convinced that Russia will respect the Olympic charter, which prohibits discrimination of any kind. He said the IOC had received written assurances from Russian officials there would be no discrimination.

Russian officials insist the law is designed to protect children and doesn't infringe on the rights of gays.

Johnson looks at bright side of Burleson's injury

NFL. Lions will need better play from lesser-known receivers to avoid struggles of 2012

Calvin Johnson is trying to stay positive after Nate Burleson's injury.

Burleson was coming off a big game last weekend at Washington, but he broke his arm in a car crash early Tuesday, so now the Lions will have to rely on Johnson and a number of less proven options at wide receiver. That didn't work out well last season, when Burleson hurt his leg and the Lions slumped to a 4-12 finish.

Johnson doesn't sound too worried about a repeat. In fact, he's hopeful some of his teammates will benefit from bigger roles.

Lions wide receiver Calvin Johnson

"In the end, it's going to make us a very good receiver group," Johnson said.

Burleson's absence toward the end of last season didn't hurt Johnson's stats. He finished with 122 catches for a record 1,964 yards — but Detroit's offence could have used more balance. Aside from Johnson, there weren't many big-play threats for quarterback Matthew Stafford to throw to.

This weekend, Detroit hosts Chicago, which limited Johnson to eight catches for 106 yards over two games last season. In other words, the Lions may very well need significant contributions from someone other than their best receiver. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Horoscopes

♈ Aries
March 21 - April 20
Get your head out of the clouds and be more practical. No matter how pleased you may be by recent events, you cannot afford to believe that nothing will change. Fantasy is fun but the real world matters.

♉ Taurus
April 21 - May 21
You may feel guilty that you have not spent more time with someone you are fond of but they understand, so don't beat yourself up. You will get plenty of chances to make it up to them over the weekend.

♊ Gemini
May 22 - June 21
Something will go wrong today but it's no big deal. Stay calm and tackle the problem in a controlled way. Others will react on an emotional level, so you must keep your head.

♋ Cancer
June 22 - July 23
A difficult decision involving a family matter will have to be made and you must make the final call. You may not want to hurt a loved one's feelings but sometimes you have to be cruel to be kind.

♌ Leo
July 24 - Aug. 23
You need to streamline your workload and you can start by knocking minor projects on the head. If they don't take you closer to your number one goal then they are a waste of time — get rid of them.

♍ Virgo
Aug. 24 - Sept. 23
Conserve your energy. The planets indicate that the weekend could be extra busy, so make use of today's less stressful aspects to rest.

♎ Libra
Sept. 24 - Oct. 23
Promise yourself that no matter what kind of situation you find yourself in you will find a way to turn it to your advantage. You're nothing if not creative.

♏ Scorpio
Oct. 24 - Nov. 22
You are many things but no way are you stupid. Which makes you wonder why someone is trying to get you interested in a plan that has no way of ever succeeding.

♐ Sagittarius
Nov. 23 - Dec. 21
There are some things that even a fun-loving Sagittarian finds too serious to laugh about and one such topic is dominant now. Others may mock but you think a sense of respect is in order and intend to act accordingly.

♑ Capricorn
Dec. 22 - Jan. 20
Try to be tolerant of people who see life from a different angle. Some of them may be a bit lacking in the brain box department but it takes all sorts to make a world.

♒ Aquarius
Jan. 21 - Feb. 19
Strive to stay on good terms with partners, whatever differences of opinion you may have had recently. You will need all the support you can get over the weekend, so don't alienate anyone.

♓ Pisces
Feb. 20 - March 20
If there are any loose ends of a financial nature that need to be tied up then get tying now because come Sunday you will no longer be in charge of what happens. SALLY BROMPTON

Vehicle(s) may be shown with optional equipment. Dealer may sell or lease for less. Limited time offers. Offers may be cancelled at any time without notice. See your Ford Dealer for complete details or call the Ford Customer Relationship Centre at 1-800-565-3673. For factory orders, a customer may either take advantage of eligible Ford retail customer promotional incentives/offers available at the time of vehicle factory order or time of vehicle delivery, but not both or combinations thereof. †Ford Employee Pricing ("Employee Pricing") is available from July 3, 2013 to September 30, 2013 (the "Program Period"), on the purchase or lease of most new 2013/2014 Ford vehicles (excluding all chassis cab, stripped chassis, and cutaway body models, F-150 Raptor, Medium Trucks, Mustang Shelby GT500 and all Lincoln models). Employee Pricing refers to A-Plan pricing ordinarily available to Ford of Canada employees (excluding any CAW-negotiated programs). The new vehicle must be delivered or factory-ordered during the Program Period from your participating Ford Dealer. Employee Pricing is not combinable with CPA, GPC, CFP, Daily Rental Allowance and AX/Z/D/F-Plan programs. *Until September 30, 2013, purchase a new 2013 Ford Focus S/Escape S/ F-150 STX SuperCab 4x2/ F-150 SuperCrew Platinum 4x4 5.0L (or $[$16,779/$22,204/$23,298/$48,080] after total Ford Employee Price adjustment of [$870/$995/$9,051/$14,739]) is deducted. Total Ford Employee Price adjustment is a combination of Employee Price Adjustment of [$620/$995/$2,301/$7,489] and delivery allowance of [$250/$0/$6,750/$7,250]. Taxes payable on full amount of purchase price after total Ford Employee Price adjustment has been deducted. Offers include freight, air tax, and PPSA (if financed or leased) but exclude administration and registration fees of up to $799, fuel fill charge of up to $120 and all applicable taxes. All prices are based on Manufacturer's Suggested Retail Prices. Dealer may sell or lease for less. Limited time offer, see dealer for details or call the Ford Customer Relationship Centre at 1-800-565-3673. Until September 30, 2013, receive 1.99% APR purchase financing on new 2013 Focus S and 4.99% APR purchase financing on new 2013 Escape S models for up to 84 months. Purchase financing offered through Ford Credit. Monthly payment is [$99/$145/$399] bi-weekly/monthly for [84/84/36] months with [$0] down payment, monthly payment is [$24/$34] for every $1,000 financed. Total obligation is [$8,316/$12,180/$14,364]. Cost of borrowing is [$1,178/$4,116] or APR of [1.99%/4.99%] and total to be repaid is [$18,018/$26,390]. Down payment may be required based on approved credit from Ford Credit. All purchase finance offers include freight, air tax, and PPSA but exclude administration and registration fees of up to $799, fuel fill charge of up to $120 and all applicable taxes. Additional payments required for PPSA, registration, security deposit, NSF fees where applicable, excess wear and tear, and late fees. Some conditions may affect qualification. Offers may change or end without notice. See dealer for complete details. Until September 30, 2013, lease a new 2013 F-150 Super Crew XLT 4x4 model for up to 36 months and get 2.99% APR on approved credit (OAC) from Ford Credit.
